Anti-Discrimination Act 1991

Act No. 85 of 1991

An Act to promote equality of opportunity for everyone by protecting them from unfair discrimination in certain areas of activity and from sexual harassment and certain associated objectionable conduct

[Assented to 9 December 1991]

WHEREAS:

(1) The international community has long recognised the need to protect and preserve the principles of dignity and equality for everyone;

(2) This is reflected in a number of international human rights instruments that the Commonwealth has ratified, including—

- . the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination;
- . the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women;
- . the International Labour Organisation Convention No. 111—Discrimination (Employment and Occupation);
- . the International Labour Organisation Convention No. 156—Workers with Family Responsibilities;
- . the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights;
- . the Convention on the Rights of the Child;
- . the Declaration on the Rights of Mentally Retarded Persons;
- . the Declaration on the Rights of Disabled Persons;

(3) The Parliament is supportive of the Commonwealth's ratification of these international instruments;

(4) In fulfilling its obligations under these international instruments the Commonwealth has enacted certain human rights legislation;

(5) The Parliament is satisfied that there is a need—

- (a) to extend the Commonwealth legislation; and
- (b) to apply anti-discrimination law consistently throughout the State; and
- (c) to ensure that determinations of unlawful conduct are enforceable in the courts of law;

(6) The Parliament considers that—

- (a) everyone should be equal before and under the law and have the right to equal protection and equal benefit of the law without discrimination; and

- (b) the protection of fragile freedoms is best effected by legislation that reflects the aspirations and needs of contemporary society; and
- (c) the quality of democratic life is improved by an educated community appreciative and respectful of the dignity and worth of everyone;

(7) It is, therefore, the intention of the Parliament to make provision, by the special measures enacted by the Act, for the promotion of equality of opportunity for everyone by protecting them from unfair discrimination in certain areas of activity and from sexual harassment and certain associated objectionable conduct.

CHAPTER 2—DISCRIMINATION PROHIBITED BY THIS ACT (COMPLAINT)

PART 1—ACT'S ANTI-DISCRIMINATION PURPOSE

Act's anti-discrimination purpose and how it is to be achieved

6.(1) One of the purposes of the Act is to promote equality of opportunity for everyone by protecting them from unfair discrimination in certain areas of activity, including work, education and accommodation.

(2) This purpose is to be achieved by—

- (a) prohibiting discrimination that is—
- (i) on a ground set out in Part 2; and
 - (ii) of a type set out in Part 3; and
 - (iii) in an area of activity set out in Part 4;

unless an exemption set out in Part 4 or 5 applies; and

- (b) allowing a complaint to be made under Chapter 7 against the person who has unlawfully discriminated; and
- (c) using the agencies and procedures established under Chapter 7 to deal with the complaint.

PART 2—PROHIBITED GROUNDS OF DISCRIMINATION

Discrimination on the basis of certain attributes prohibited

7.(1) The Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of the following attributes—

- (a) sex;
- (b) marital status;
- (c) pregnancy;
- (d) parental status;
- (e) breastfeeding;
- (f) age;
- (g) race;
- (h) impairment;
- (i) religion;
- (j) political belief or activity;
- (k) trade union activity;
- (l) lawful sexual activity;
- (m) association with, or relation to, a person identified on the basis of any of the above attributes.

(2) Breastfeeding is an attribute for which discrimination is prohibited only for the purposes of Division 4 of Part 4 (Goods and services area).

Meaning of discrimination on the basis of an attribute

8. Discrimination on the basis of an attribute includes direct and indirect discrimination on the basis of—

- (a) a characteristic that a person with any of the attributes generally has; or
- (b) a characteristic that is often imputed to a person with any of the attributes; or
- (c) an attribute that a person is presumed to have, or to have had at any time, by the person discriminating; or
- (d) an attribute that a person had, even if the person did not have it at the time of the discrimination.

Example of paragraph (c)—

If an employer refused to consider a written application from a person called Viv because it assumed Viv was female, the employer would have discriminated on the basis of an attribute (female sex) that Viv (a male) was presumed to have.

PART 3—PROHIBITED TYPES OF DISCRIMINATION

Discrimination of certain types prohibited

9. The Act prohibits the following types of discrimination—

- (a) direct discrimination;
- (b) indirect discrimination.

Meaning of direct discrimination

10.(1) Direct discrimination on the basis of an attribute happens if a person treats, or proposes to treat, a person with an attribute less favourably than another person without the attribute is or would be treated in circumstances that are the same or not materially different.

Example—R refuses to rent a flat to C because—

- . C is English and R doesn't like English people
- . C's friend, B, is English and R doesn't like English people
- . R believes that English people are unreliable tenants.

In each case, R discriminates against C, whether or not R's belief about C's or B's nationality, or the characteristics of people of that nationality, is correct.

(2) It is not necessary that the person who discriminates considers the treatment is less favourable.

(3) The person's motive for discriminating is irrelevant.

Example—R refuses to employ C, who is Chinese, not because R dislikes Chinese people, but because R knows that C would be treated badly by other staff, some of whom are prejudiced against Asian people. R's conduct amounts to discrimination against C.

(4) If there are 2 or more reasons why a person treats, or proposes to treat, another person with an attribute less favourably, the person treats the other person less favourably on the basis of the attribute if the attribute is a substantial reason for the treatment.

(5) In determining whether a person treats, or proposes to treat a person with an impairment less favourably than another person is or would be treated in circumstances that are the same or not materially different, the fact that the person with the impairment may require special services or facilities is irrelevant.

Meaning of indirect discrimination

11.(1) Indirect discrimination on the basis of an attribute happens if a person imposes, or proposes to impose, a term—

- (a) with which a person with an attribute does not or is not able to comply; and
- (b) with which a higher proportion of people without the attribute comply or are able to comply; and
- (c) that is not reasonable.

(2) Whether a term is reasonable depends on all the relevant circumstances of the case, including, for example—

- (a) the consequences of failure to comply with the term; and
- (b) the cost of alternative terms; and
- (c) the financial circumstances of the person who imposes, or proposes to impose, the term.

(3) It is not necessary that the person imposing, or proposing to impose, the term is aware of the indirect discrimination.

(4) In this section—

“term” includes condition, requirement or practice, whether or not written.

Example 1— An employer decides to employ people who are over 190cm tall, although height is not pertinent to effective performance of the work. This disadvantages women and people of Asian origin, as there are more men of non-Asian origin who can comply. The discrimination is unlawful because the height requirement is unreasonable, there being no genuine occupational reason to justify it.

Example 2— An employer requires employees to wear a uniform, including a cap, for appearance reasons, not for hygiene or safety reasons. The requirement is not directly discriminatory, but it has a discriminatory effect against people who are required by religious or cultural beliefs to wear particular headdress.
