1. Introduction

1.1 Purpose

This procedure aims to ensure that Mater Education recognises the previous qualifications and experience of potential students. It also outlines the requirements and processes to apply for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL), being an assessment-only pathway of determining the competence of a person. MEL offers the opportunity for undertaking an assessment process through Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL).

1.2 Scope and context

This procedure applies to all potential students of Mater Education

1.3 Governing policy

Document ID	Document title
PY-MEL-040012	Quality Management System

2. Procedure requirements

The following procedures are to be followed.

2.1 Applying for recognition of prior learning

RPL is an assessment process must follow both the principles of assessment and rules of evidence.

The smallest denomination of recognition that a candidate can request RPL to be applied against will be a unit of competency.

Evidence considered inferring competence or meeting learning outcomes in an RPL assessment process must incorporate a component that determines the person is currently competent in the area being assessed.

A candidate expresses interest in RPL either from an unsuccessful Credit Transfer request, at the time of application for enrolment or through an enquiry to MEL.

NB: From 1 July 2017 the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia has changed its policies relating to credit transfer and the recognition of prior learning to now state that credit transfer or the recognition of prior learning must be consistent with AQF national principles and the graduate's ability to meet the NMBA Enrolled nurse standards for practice.

ANMAC advises that programs not accredited by ANMAC and not approved by the NMBA will not lead to registration as an Enrolled nurse in Australia under the approved qualification pathway therefore Mater Education will not recognise prior learning undertaken in a program not approved by the NMBA.

2.2 Assessing recognition of prior learning application

Recognition of certification issued by other RTOs solely is not RPL. RPL is a form of assessment of the competence of a person, while providing credit is recognising the equivalence of studies previously undertaken and completed successfully.

RPL is an assessment process must follow both the principles of assessment and rules of evidence. The Manager of Curriculum and Compliance or their representative will refer the applicant to a relevant assessor for their course of study.

2.3 Currency and relevance

MEL recommends that the RPL applicant must have completed the experience or unit of competency outcome within the last 2 years and be current in the knowledge and skills where recognition is being sought.

MEL may require the applicant to undertake gap training or competency assessment to confirm currency.

For RPL of any EN units in the Diploma of Nursing program, applicants must provide evidence of undertaking 'enrolled nurse work' as an enrolled nurse or enrolled nurse student as part of an NMBA approved program.

2.4 Requirements with recognition of prior learning outcomes

The assessor will notify students of RPL application outcomes, once completed.

If a student is granted RPL for a particular unit, although strongly encouraged to do so with a view to consolidating learning within the course context, he/she does not need to attend the classes for those units.

RPL will not be granted for units that form part of a cluster of units or qualification and the assessment items cannot be separated. The student is expected to complete all assessment requirements.

If the outcome of the application for RPL is not known by the unit commencement date, the student must attend classes and assessments until they are notified of the outcome.

If the outcome is that more evidence is required, the assessor will liaise with the applicant and determine if requirements are reasonably able to be met or if the unit of competency will not have RPL recognition given.

2.5 Fees and charges

The applicant is advised of fees for application and fees per unit in the initial interview phase, where they have identified they may request RPL. If a student identifies they wish to proceed to a formal process of recognition, that is, they wish their evidence to be assessed in full, MEL will advise the applicant of the fees per unit that will apply. Fees for RPL will also appear on the MEL website. Any change to course fees or VET Student Loans for eligible students because of the recognition pathway will be updated and students will be communicated of the changes by Student Services.

Students may be able to enter into a payment arrangement on request.

3. Definitions

Term	Definition
Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)	The assessment of any previously unrecognised skills and knowledge that an individual has achieved outside the formal education and training system. RPL is an assessment process (as distinct from a training process) that assesses the individual's non-formal and informal learning. This assessment determines the extent to which an individual has achieved the required learning outcomes, competency outcomes, or standards for entry to, and/or partial or total completion of a qualification.
Formal Learning	Refers to learning that takes place through a structured program of instruction and is linked to the attainment of an AQF qualification or statement of attainment (for example, a certificate, diploma or university degree)
Non-formal learning	Refers to learning that takes place through a structured program of instruction, but does not lead to the attainment of an AQF qualification or statement of attainment (for example, in house professional development programs conducted by a business)
Informal learning	Refers to learning that results through experience of work-related, social, family, hobby or leisure activities.
